Z39.50 Search

- Z39.50 is a client–server protocol for searching and retrieving information from remote library catalogs
- Can search multiple catalogs at one time for FREE
- See whatever record is in other library’s catalog
- Can produce uneven search results; not all library catalogs set up for same searches (author, title, etc.)
- Not all library catalogs permit Z39.50 searching
- Doesn’t always handle diacritics well
- Z39.50 search may be included in your catalog system
